The children, in our school, work hard and behave well and we want to reward them for their efforts. Rewarding children regularly, boosts their self-esteem and confidence and this in turn will help them develop positive attitudes and ensure they achieve well.

There are many ways we can reward our children such as with a smile, a well done comment, a high five or a sticker. But the most visual and successful method we have found, is to reward children with Dojo points, using the interactive reward system, "Class Dojo," online.

The children can gain points over a week. Their goal is to gain Dojo points in order to receive certificates, stickers and ultimately have free time on a Friday afternoon to enjoy spending time with friends taking part in their favourite activities. There are many ways your child can earn Dojo points. These include:

- Working hard
- Effort
- Using good manners
- Helping others
- Demonstrating excellent behaviour and being an ambassador for school
- Ensuring they are making good personal progress and achieving well in lessons
- Following The Brockley Way – Only my best is good enough!
- Doing the right thing, at the right time and making sensible decisions

One of the unique advantages of this kind of reward system is that parents are able to monitor their child's behaviour at school from their own home. You will be given a personal account code to enter on the Class Dojo website and you can track your child's behaviour at your convenience. We actively encourage parents to log on regularly so that we can work together to support the children in being the best that they can be!

Sanctions

It is as important to have sanctions, as it is to have rewards in a school. There is a need for sanctions so that pupils are aware of the disapproval of unacceptable behaviour and to ensure the safety, respect and learning of everyone in our school community.

At Brockley Primary School we want children to take responsibility for their actions as well as provide opportunities to correct their behaviour before it is too late.

The Dojo rewards and sanctions is a new strategy (September 2016) that all children and staff will use in our school to ensure a consistent approach to improving behaviour. It works by providing children with a choice to correct their behaviour before it becomes a more serious matter.

Please refer to the sanctions chart for examples of how dojos are used as a sanction.

Behaviour Policy – Our Vision Statement

Our school vision is The Brockley Way – Only my best is good enough!

Underpinning our vision are the values respect, responsibility and resilience.

The vision is one of pupils who, by the time they leave our school, will be informed, self-motivated and responsible citizens, working in a skilled and creative way with integrity and thoughtfulness.

They will be active learners who are able to tackle problems. They will be equipped to live comfortably with everyday demands of English, Maths, technology and a moral and spiritual awareness.

Serious unacceptable behaviour

School adopts the Dojo Sanctions Scheme which was written by the school council. The scheme identifies unacceptable behaviours, dojos lost and what lessons can be learnt from behaviours and consequences.

- Serious incidents may override the previously mentioned procedures
- The headteacher is involved immediately
- Parents/carers are informed
- Exclusion (internal or external). Either a fixed period or permanently – in accordance with the school's policy and national guidance.

This course of action is followed only when the usual means of maintaining good order in the school community have not affected a significant improvement in conduct.
